

South East Region presents So, What is a Technician?

A presentation launch of the new 'Calling all Technicians' booklet

Wednesday 12th October 2022 17.30pm – 18.30pm

Launching a new 'Calling all Technicians' booklet describing what a Technician is.

Over the past few months there have been many conversations amongst Technicians both new and senior about what a Technician really is. This booklet written and launched by the Kent and East Sussex branch has been written by technicians to outline the many roles in which they work to enable engineers and technicians to recognise the direction of their career journey, whether its to continue as a technician throughout their career or whether to cross the path to becoming an engineer. Either way, technicians and engineers have very similar roles but work alongside each other towards the same end goal.

This presentation is part of the series of 'So, What is a Technician?'

Susan Hawkes, CAD Technician with Berryrange Ltd, EngTech MICE will talk about the journey so far towards enabling recognition of the role of technician within industry and the continuation of this journey towards real change for the future.

Hannah Shewan-Friend, Civil Engineering Technician at Arup, EngTech MICE will talk about how this booklet came about and the research she carried out in its writing.
